Juniors will run the same courses the other competitors (under the same judge), and will get veteran times. Junior handler Qs are available in all classes at all three levels. A dog running in a particular standard class with a JH cannot also run in the same class for "dog Qs" with a different handler. Qs earned by the JH toward JH titles do not also count toward the dog's title. A dog running with a junior can also be entered in other classes with another handler for Qs that will count toward the dog's titles, but in no case can a dog run the same course twice. (Whether a dog is being entered for JH Qs or dog Qs must be indicated on the entry form.)

Juniors must have their entry waivers signed by a parent or guardian. To earn Qs toward a junior title, juniors must have a junior handler ID card, available for download from the AAC web site (www.aac.ca). Juniors may run different dogs at different trials and have their Qs count toward JH titles, provided they enter as a JH each time. (That is, the Qs accumulate to the handler, not the dog.) Dogs run by juniors for JH Qs can run at one jump height lower than the height at which they normally compete.
